

BestTransport Taps New VP of Sales

New Executive to Drive Aggressive Expansion and Revenue Growth

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

COLUMBUS, (February 20, 2007) – BestTransport, Inc. announced today the latest addition to their executive management team. Bill D’Amico joined the leading Application Service Provider of Transport Management Systems (TMS), as the Vice President of Sales. In this role, Mr. D’Amico will be responsible for managing all aspects of sales operations for the company, as well as growing the sales organization to meet the company’s aggressive expansion objectives.

“Bill’s substantial experience and success at building sales organizations matches up very well with our recent growth and current expansion plans.” said Mark Shary, President and CEO of BestTransport. “We’re very pleased to have him join the team at such an exciting time for our company.” Shary concluded.

With over 25 years of combined information technology and software experience, Mr. D’Amico has been leading successful software sales teams for the past 14 years. Most recently, he managed Novell’s Midwest Public Sector region, where he achieved double digit revenue growth in a previously declining market. Prior to that, Mr. D’Amico was VP of sales, services and customer support for Pathlore, a privately held Learning Management Software (LMS) provider based in Columbus, OH. In this role he was able to achieve 40% revenue growth in two years, a 57% increase in deferred revenue, and a 77% increase in customer satisfaction, which helped lead to the successful acquisition of Pathlore by SumTotal Systems in 2005. Mr. D’Amico also ran highly profitable regions and divisions over an eight year period for Computer Associates. He holds a BA in Managerial Studies and Economics from Rice University.

“I am very excited to be joining BestTransport.” D’Amico stated. “The company is young, aggressive, and profitable, with a seasoned executive team already in place. Just as important, BestTransport has a proven track record of success in delivering rapid ROI to its customers, and represents an ideal match for my background in building sales teams and generating revenue growth.”
